CELEBRATES 95th BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Emily M. Thurston, Main Street, Andover, was honored Aug. 14, at a reception from 2:00 to 4:00 p. m. at the Christian Education Building, Andover, on the occasion of her 95th birthday. The affair was hosted by her children Mrs. Della M. Howard, Rumford, Miss Ivy E. Thurston, Andover, and Lester R. Thurston, Harrisburg, Pa.

Some 100 relatives and friends attended. A buffet lunch, tea, coffee, and punch were served and a birthday cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Lorenzo Miller, Jr., of Andover, was a feature of the luncheon.

Mrs. Thurston, born in New Germany, Nova Scotia, came to Andover at the age of nine. She was married to Ralph D. Thurston, deceased in 1937. Together Mr. and Mrs. Thurston operated a general store in Andover for 22 years. Her husband also served two terms in the Maine Legislature.

Emily Thurston is a long-time member of the First Congregational Church, the Ladies Aid of the church, Andover Friday Club, Andover Public Library and the Lone Mountain Grange. She has five grandchildren, 16 great grandchildren and one great great grandchild.

Still active at the age of 95, she reads with the aid of a magnifying glass, watches television, but most of all enjoys her family and many friends.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The Planning Board has approved a housing for the elderly complex of 24 units. This project is to be located on Evergreen Road. The developer indicated construction would start in a few weeks with occupancy expected this winter.

It is expected tax bills will be sent out in the next three to four weeks. The assessors have very nearly completed their work. We have to have three weeks after that time to complete the individual taxes and type the books.

At this writing there is very little on the agenda for the selectmen's meeting next Monday night. The possibility of the town office dispensing auto registrations will be discussed. The Legislature has authorized municipalities to issue renewals on any vehicles up to 6000 pounds gross weight. New vehicles and transfers must be done through the State.

87-YEAR-OLD HIKER IS TRAVELLING APPALACHIAN TRAIL

Hikers up Mount Spec on Tuesday were surprised to meet a 87 year old hiker carrying a heavy pack coming down the mountain. Ernest Morris of Independence, Calif., had flown from California to Georgia in order to travel the length of the Appalachian Trail. He started on the trail on March 31.

Soon after leaving Gorham, he apparently took the wrong fork at one point on the trail and to get back on the right trail went due north coming out at the top of Mahoosuc Notch where in letting his pack down a cliff the rope broke and damaged the aluminum frame of his pack.

At the parking area of Route 26 he obtained a ride to Errol where Carlton Eames got him a ride to Rangeley where he was scheduled to meet a friend and where he could have his pack repaired.

He had hiked all through the High Sierras since he retired 20 years ago and had never met more rough going than he found coming down the side of Mahoosuc Notch.

He mentioned that all the young people he met on the trail were wonderful to him. (He didn't mention meeting any old people.) A large part of his life had been spent working for the Boy Scouts of America. He apparently practiced what he preached.

His "supply line" consists of two bags which his daughter in California mails to him as directed with whatever he needs as to clothing and supplies, mailing them back to her.

way, Tammy Bean, Susan Gould, Beth Smith, Linda James, Laurie Bradley, Mac Bradley, Kim Monzo, Jimmy Fiske, Teresa Roberts, Nancy Chadbourne.

I would like to thank Ivy Philbrook for the use of her beach, the Buck family for their boat and raft, the grange for their donation of the floatation markers, the mothers who helped with applications and schedules, and a special thanks to teaching assistants Blaine MacKay and Betsy Smith whose services were invaluable in helping with the large number of children in the program.—Dan Hannon, Program Director.

Adeline Dexter is spending the month of August at her camp at Howard Pond, Hanover.

Mrs. Micaela Davidson, Atwater, Calif., and Mrs. Lee Ann Weddell, Orofino, Idaho, arrived Wednesday in West Bethel, called here by the illness of their father, Walter Grover. Thursday morning he was reported slightly improved, having spent a more comfortable night.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY RECEIVES MODEL OF HANOVER FERRY

A scale model of the Hanover ferry made by Frank Worcester of Hanover assisted by three seventh graders Lisa Ramsay, Pamela Morton and Martha Stearns has been donated to the Bethel Historical Society. The model is a particularly fine one in its detail and precision providing a clear conception of how this mode of transportation worked.

The Hanover ferry was one of several in Bethel that crossed the Androscoggin River. Established in 1873, two thirds of it was owned by the Town of Hanover and the remaining third by Bethel. It ceased to operate after 1934. The model may be seen in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House during museum hours.

BICENTENNIAL CONCERT AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH SUNDAY, AUG. 24

On Sunday, Aug. 24, at 8:15 p. m., a Bicentennial Concert of music by American composers will be presented in the West Parish Congregational Church. The recently organized Bicentennial Choir, directed by Edward H. Hastings, will sing music by composers of the Colonial period together with two choruses from "Ode to the Virginian Voyage" by the contemporary composer Randall Thompson. A special feature will be a group of three choruses by William Billings, the Boston tanner who is today recognized as America's first native-born composer of serious music.

Mr. Hastings will play organ selections by American composers of the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries including William Selby, George Whitefield Chadwick, Daniel Pinkham and Richard Purvis. The second half of the concert will open with "Concert Variations on the Austrian Hymn" by John Knowles Paine, who, in 1662, founded Harvard's department of music, the first such department in an American College.

The audience will also have an opportunity to sing "Coronation," the only 18th-century American hymn still in general use, and, at the conclusion of the concert, "America."

This program, which is open to the public without charge, is part of a year-long series of activities sponsored by the Bethel Bicentennial Committee. Robert Keniston, chairman. Afterwards a group of ladies under the direction of Margaret Joy Tibbels will serve light refreshments.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend this concert of music for the Bicentennial year.

In the citizens' portion of the meeting, Mrs. Frances Gunther, recently resigned as a member of the Telstar English department, expressed her views with regard to some of the problems prevalent at the school. She received the thanks of the board for her frank, forthright and helpful statements.

It was voted to postpone any action on black-top surfacing/resurfacing at Telstar until the next regular board meeting.

Greenwood City — South Woodstock

— Mrs. Calista Morgan, Corres. —

This Tuesday morning I decided to take Sea Nymph out. It was my first free Tuesday in seven weeks each of the others, at this time, eight o'clock, I was at the hospital for tests.

Pushing out into the water, I headed for Sanborn River, my first visit of the summer. There was a feeling of freedom, of mental stimulation, available for anyone who would take a look. I intended to do just that.

In certain places our valley looks as though it had rained rocks and they lay as they fell on the mountain sides, no where really at rest, but leaning on each other, with cavities between. They seem to have dropped from a planet and nature worked them into our smiling valley.

Of course at the mouth of the river I looked and listened for the Red-wings but I saw not one. However there were several nests and a flock of Cedar Wax-Wings. They would hesitate, fly out, wheel overhead, then land in the alders. For the moment the air chattered, gasped, and squeaked as they talked. Then with unexpected suddenness they were gone. These birds dress in robes of delicate and silky texture; those shades of blending beauty which give them an appearance of distinction peculiarly their own. Their erectile crest expresses their emotions; lying loose upon the head signifies ease and comfort, surprise, erect at once, fear, pressed flat. I have missed them at the home where they came so often before our elms were cut.

There were many water lilies but one especially attracted my attention. It nestled all alone on a little blue pool surrounded by pickeral weeds, their blue heads on guard. I'm sure it measured five inches across its white waxy petals displaying grace, beauty, purity, and fragrance.

A woodpecker rattled an old elm tree; where it was getting an early morning snack. He had probably already had his suet from my feeder.

I turned right to enter the river when I noticed, at the left side a school of little Whirligig Beetles, no more than a quarter of an inch long, dancing, darling, whirling; acting like tiny outboards gone crazy.

A whirligig of beetles With air-and-water eyes Peered into the pond While they peered into the skies.

Here I fished and got one strike then started on.

This isn't a river that slips over boulders, piling and eddying, tossing spray, shading from black to white. It's a calm slow moving river where the summer light is gentle but piercing. The darkness is lightened suddenly, the silence is perfect, then you may hear the faint music of a bird. Trees stand erect with true poise along its banks, without effort. Their strength is so perfect; it is invisible. You feel the key turning to the peace within yourself.

Nothing moved in all the valley for a time except the river, me, and the breezes which crept among the reeds.

I especially noted the bur-reed, leaves somewhat resembling the cat-tail. The mature heads, or fruit, about one inch across are composed of wedge-shaped nutlets arranged in the form of a sphere. I picked a few to take home.

A dragon fly was out for a swim. In he'd dive making little ripples that lived for a few moments on the river's bosom, then died away.

The valley seemed to breathe, as birds darted toward the white thin trunks of the paper birches which marked one bend of the river.

A red squirrel wound his clock and I began to wonder how he Robin, Peter and Heidi Heath are spending this week with relatives in this area.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery Ryerson recently returned from a trip to Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., where they visited their son Craig, his wife Wanda, and their grandson Keith. Two of their other sons, Duane and Troy, also Lisa Stevens, went with them on the trip. Craig has graduated from a training school and is now a drill sergeant. Enroute they visited the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N. Y., also Niagara Falls. After reaching Missouri and having a few days of rest, they also visited some other places of interest. One was an animal park nine miles long where the animals roam about. They visited Silver Dollar, Missouri, and they took in a baseball game in Kansas City. A visit with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Knoulton at Winfield, Kan., was enjoyed by all. Mr. Knoulton was a buddy of Mr. Ryerson in the navy 30 years ago. These trips were planned by Craig and Wanda for their parents while they were there. They have a could call any particular tree his own; and yet he would run up the trunk of one out of the myriads as if it were an old road. In spite of his noise he seemed glad to see me. The woods are never complete without him adding a magic spontaneity to the dipping arms of the trees.

There were trails where animals came to drink and each time I came to one I hoped to see one but none came.

Now turning back I could drift and look to the mountains. Today they were thoughtful as I gazed for a moment. They sat clean and lifted their heads into the cap of blue. After two hours out here, I could judge better the true value of things, and a greater ability to derive pleasure from every aspect of my natural surroundings.

Days grow shorter and the year of the pond is fading into infinity but I hope I can row again to see its changes.

I attended the Delta Kappa Gamma picnic with Lettie Brooks at Mary Burns' cottage at Howard Pond, Wednesday.

Ann Holt spent the week with friends at the coast.

Robert and Jeri Holt were at the home of their parents, Saturday afternoon, returning to Wind- sor in the evening. Danny was visiting his other grandparents in Bangor.

who passed away Aug. 23, 1974

We think of you in silence
And make no outward show
But what it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.
You wished no one a last farewell
Nor even said goodbye
You were gone before we knew it
And only God knows why.
Your golden heart stopped beating
Your tender hands at rest.
God broke our hearts to prove to us
He only takes the best.

ENERGY CORE PROPOSAL SUBMITTED TO ERDA

BY OXFORD COUNTY E. O. C.

The Oxford County Economic Opportunity Council (OCEOC) has announced the submission of a proposal for funding a demonstration program for development of low cost housing with utilizes alternative energy sources. The Community Action Agency is requesting a grant from the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) to construct and operate three models of a housing unit called the ENERGY CORE.

In announcing the proposal, OCEOC Executive Director Allon Cole stated "We believe that the innovative housing concepts and social action involved in this proposal have the potential for revolutionizing housing for low and middle income people. The low initial cost for the basic shelter combined with the freedom from operating costs as a result of using solar and wind power will allow people to build adequate homes at prices they can afford."

The ENERGY CORE is being developed by Moore/Weinrich Architects of Rumford Point and is the result of their interest in alternative energy systems and their research in home construction techniques. The basis of the housing unit is the mechanical core, which contains the space conditioning equipment for the home. Electricity is generated by a wind generator, with a set of heavy duty storage batteries as a back-up system.

Hot water and space heating is provided by solar collectors and a thermal syphon, with electric resistance heating as a back-up system. The ENERGY CORE also uses a composting organic waste system rather than a conventional septic system.

The house is built around this mechanical core and is also designed to save energy and expenses. Steven Moore and John Weinrich are developing a panel which features a higher thermal resistance at a lower cost per square foot than conventional home construction techniques. These panels can be mass produced and erected by semi-skilled labor, which will keep the house construction costs low.

"Moore/Weinrich plan to synthesize these various energy components into a single core and to simplify the construction of the housing unit," explained Brad Blake, OCEOC Administrative Assistant who wrote the proposal.

"We are convinced that the weather in Oxford County is suitable for total reliance on solar and wind power. We also know that there is a great need for a different approach to housing. If we can run a demonstration project and prove to the Farmer's Home Administration (FHA) that these units meet or exceed their standards, then the availability of low-interest loans will stimulate a great development of these types of homes not just in Oxford County but throughout Maine. It is conceivable that the ENERGY CORE could become the model for future housing in other places in the country where the meteorology is suitable."

"To meet the need and the expected demand for these housing units, the OCEOC will create a non-profit housing development corporation to facilitate housing for the low-income people in the area. Our ultimate objectives are to develop low cost, adequate housing for Oxford County residents and to change our society's dependence on costly petroleum-derived energy to the utilization of solar and wind power, which are free, non-polluting energy sources."

30 Seconds WITH THE NAZARENE

Rev. Barbara Huse, Pastor
Bethel Church of the Nazarene

Many today give the Lord the silent treatment. They do not wish to become involved one way or the other so they make no commitment and have no comment. They have never said, "I have decided to follow Jesus." This generation is well educated, civilized, trained, specialized in most every vocation. Man feels competent to face life himself with little need of a supreme being—if there is such a person, so they say! We are too educated, too sophisticated to crucify the Lord Jesus Christ—so they just simply pass him by and do nothing. They never talk to Him in prayer. They never worship Him in church or elsewhere. They have no need to walk with Him—they prefer to walk alone. Friend, in the words of the hymn, "What will you do with Jesus? Neutral you cannot be!" As Platte asked, "What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ?" Matthew 27:22.

BICENTENNIAL ATTENDED BY
1200 AT WILSON'S MILLS AUG 9

Over 1200 persons, including former residents, relatives and friends from other communities and tourists, were in Wilson's Mills August 9 to help that tiny community, nestled at the foot of Aziscoos Mountain on the east bank of the Magalloway River celebrate its Sesquicentennial birthday. Some may say "So what?" But the fact that a community of less than 20 (sq) permanent families and probably eight to ten summer resident families could entertain and feed that many people in one day is nothing short of miraculous.

Fast paced events during the one day celebration reflected months of advanced planning and if anything was overlooked by the planning committee one can only wonder what it could have been.

The handful of residents was assisted by several neighbors from the communities of Magalloway Plantation and Wentworth Location, the latter across the river in New Hampshire, displaying the same spirit of sharing which characterized the early settlers.

Uniquely, the three communities are the only communities on the entire river which has its origin in Parmachenee Lake and which empties into the Androscoggin River, South of Wentworth Location.

The program opened officially with ecumenical services in Spaulding Memorial Chapel, progressed through the largest parade in the history of the valley, through a day packed with activities, to an evening of country music for entertainment and dancing.

Services in the chapel were led by the Rev. Dale True, pastor, the Rev. Albert Bellefeuille, pastor of St. Pius X Church in Errol, N. H., Mrs. Beatrice Burris and Robert Waugh, former lay pastors of the chapel, and Richard Pinette, layman of St. Pius X Church.

Mrs. Paul Favinger was organist and the St. Bendans' Boys Choir presented several selections. Rev. Bellefeuille, in his commentary "The Church in the Life of a Community" noted with awe the untold sacrifices made, hardships endured and the faith displayed by the early settlers in the valley as evidenced in the construction of the chapel and the provisions made for education of the children.

With Earl Frazer of Rangeley as parade marshal the 52 unit parade, the largest ever seen in the valley, got under way promptly at 11 a. m., proceeded across the river, past the Grange-town hall, past the chapel to the school house where it reversed directions and retraced its route, a total distance of over two miles. Escort for the parade was furnished by Sheriff Alton Howe and marching music by the Old Crow Band of Farmington.

Winning floats were St. Pius X, first; Little Magalloway Indians, second; Sesquicentennial Cake, by the George Stranger family of Berlin, N. H., third. The ancient river bateau entered by Ralph Sweat of Errol, N. H., received honorable mention.

Also in the parade were the community's oldest resident, Mrs. Gladys Bennett, 81 and its youngest resident, Nicholas Staley, five weeks old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Staley.

Clowns from the Shrine Temple of Bethel amused old and young alike.

All other activities, except the turkey shoot, sea-plane rides originating from Aziscoos Lake and the antique display housed in the nearby Aziscoos Inn, were in the hall and/or on the grounds. These included the usual midway concessions, games and beano and an auction. One of the more popular attractions was the log tossing contest, atypical of the region, another was the balloon catch.

SILLSBY - MARTIN

Announcement is being made of the Aug. 2 wedding of Carole Ann Martin and Robert E. Silsby at the home of the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Painchaud of 8 Water Street, Kittery, Maine.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Martin, Greenwood Center, and parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Silsby, Kittery Point, Maine.

Attending the couple were Mrs. Melissa Foss of Wells, Maine, and William Wyman, Jr., of Kittery, Maine.

Following the double ring ceremony a reception was held at the oceanside home of the groom's parents.

Following a Down East Cruise, the couple returned to their new home in Kennebunk, Maine.

which netted the young winner a five dollar bill.

Many carnival type games and contests of special interest to children were held on the second floor of the hall and proved a boon for parents, freeing them for adult activities.

Included in the antique display were heirlooms and artifacts, the Civil War discharge papers issued to Andrew N. Littlehale, and an heirloom friendship quilt.

The final feature of the day was a three hour musical program by the Adams family. Special numbers by ten year old Jimmy Adams, drummer, were enthusiastically received.

A First Aid van was parked all day by the hall.

Coffee and homemade doughnuts went on sale early in the forenoon, hamburgers and hot dogs at noon to customers waiting in four lines, and a barbecued chicken supper was served in the late afternoon to an estimated 700 persons.

Guest speakers were Kenneth Hinkley of Augusta, retired deputy commissioner of the Maine Forest Service, and Webb Tilton of Northfield, N. H., son of a former president of the exclusive Parmachenee Club made famous by the visit of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

An auction of donated articles, including sale of the specially minted coins, was also a feature of the afternoon program.

Pinette was master of ceremonies.

Planning for the event began in the fall of 1974 when Lawrence Littlehale was named chairman, Norman Littlehale co-chairman; Mrs. Angela Littlehale Bennett, secretary; Mrs. Elise (cq) Littlehale of Magalloway Plantation, treasurer; and Mrs. Gwendolyn Littlehale, publicity.

Named to the history book committee were Mrs. Marjorie Bennett Littlehale, chairman, Mrs. Florence Adams and Mrs. Isabelle Bryant.

Meetings were held monthly until about two months before the event when they were stepped up to weekly sessions.

"Pioneers of the Magalloways, 1892-1904" by Granville P. Wilson, now out of print, was reprinted, "History of Wilson Mills and Settlements" was written by the committee and sent to the publishers, the "Wilson's Mills Sesquicentennial Cook Book", composed of recipes submitted by residents and others throughout the region, was also published. Pencil sketches for the cook book were by Richard Johnston of Andover. All three books were on sale at the celebration, plus a special sesquicentennial quilt made by Mrs. Adams, which was sold on chances.

Special gold and silver sesquicentennial coins were minted and used made. The coins featured a representation of the Aziscoos dam built in 1909, the largest dam in the world at that time, with a picture of the Bennett covered bridge on the converse side. Tiles featured the bridge, dam and chapel. These were on sale on the midway and also sold at auction.

In March this year the grist mill wheel which generated power for the Captain John Wilson grist mill on the west bank of the river was recovered from the river bed by Norman Littlehale, Frank Stanley and Jeffrey Littlehale and enshrined, with an appropriate plaque, on the chapel lawn.

In addition, the water box, built in 1925 and used for many to water horses and cool automobile radiators, was replaced.

Homes in the valley, always well kept, sparked more than ever and the three small cemeteries and grounds of the chapel, hall and school, were spotless.

One can only conclude this story with a question "How in the world did a community of less than 20 permanent families do all this in one day?"
